

love yourjob .uk.com

POPE JOHN PAUL 11
18 MAY 1920
5-30 PM
WADOWICE, POLAND

Thank you for ordering this report. I hope that it will put you on the right path to a fulfilling and rewarding career.

Only you can offer what you do and you need to ensure that you find the opportunity in your career life to best express your creative self.

So where does creativity come into it? We are all capable of creative expression, in whatever form that creativity takes. You could be capable of creating innovative ideas, inspired communication - whether it be writing, speaking, teaching or relating to others. You could be a master at bringing practical form to ideas or the intangible. Creativity of course also takes the more physical forms of sculpting, drawing, music, singing, painting, sport or dancing.

It might take some courage to make the necessary changes; perhaps you need to re-skill or overcome obstacles that are currently standing in your way. What ever it takes, I hope that the information contained in this report will assist you in choosing a direction that will provide you with years of fulfilment and stimulation.

HOW TO USE THIS REPORT

The information presented in this report is designed to give you as many options as possible.

A satisfying and fulfilling career is not based purely on the actual work you do. You have different needs that have to be fulfilled, and many interests that need to be stimulated. Therefore it is important that you become familiar with all the information in this guide to gain the most benefit. Make sure to read all the information in blue as this will explain how each piece of information fits into the greater picture.

This report is offered as a guide only. Only you can make decisions for yourself based on your current situation, needs and circumstances. Maybe your choice of career or career/job change will be a simple one to implement but perhaps due to your personal circumstances you will need to make interim and long-term plans of how to reach your career goals. Please seek the advice of a professional Life Coach should you feel that you need more assistance with the planning and implementing of any major changes.

The report is divided into 2 separate sections:

PERSONALITY AND DISPOSITION

The first section covers your unique personality and disposition. Your personal needs have to be fulfilled by any work that you may do and your attributes valued in order for you to feel that you are making a contribution that makes use of your personal strengths and self expression and that gives you a sense of security, satisfaction and fulfilment on an inner level.

OVERVIEW OF CAREER, WORKING ENVIRONMENT AND EARNING CAPACITY

This broad overview will narrow down your areas of interest, look at what your daily work environment might be like and highlight the areas of your own earning potential. And to add a little balance to your life, see what you could do 'just for the love of it'.

Make special note of any recurring themes that appear throughout this report, they will be a very strong indicator of the direction you need to follow or of personal traits you need to be especially aware of.

Conflicting information will be contained in this report reflecting the complexity of human nature. For example, you might be described as helpful and selfless in one section and self involved and selfish in another, both of these will be relevant but they will each be triggered under different circumstances. Also, each might be best used to your advantage at different times.

PERSONALITY AND DISPOSITION

Manner of self expression, interests and ideals

Inner fulfilment needs

Approach to work and how others perceive you

- Supplementary Info

This first section looks at what interests and motivates you, in order to know immediately what work or job will suit your personality and needs best. While you might have suitable skills for a particular job or career area, if the work or work environment doesn't suit you, you will never be satisfied with what you are doing.

How others perceive you is also important to assess whether your skills and talents will be apparent or if you will need to make a special point of promoting them. Knowing all this will give you an advantage when making the important choice of what career to work within.

WHAT DO YOU NEED TO BE ABLE TO DO AT WORK AND WHAT DO YOU NEED BACK?

You will really prosper and shine doing work that involves the power of transformation, renovation, recycling or makeovers. The transformation of the value of assets and resources of others from worthless to valuable, the change from uninviting to appealing, unwanted to desirable, plain to attractive. Or perhaps the transformation of the personal self value of others from poor to resilient. The transformation of the unknown to the known could also lure you – delving into the unconscious, the hidden, the obscured, the mysterious. Or the ultimate transformation – saving life, creating life or examining the meaning of life and our passing into the life after death.

A stable environment will suit you best, not too much change or risk. You need the space to design, build and implement your practical, workable systems to improve work flow and for this you must have a certain amount of predictability.

You really enjoy life's little luxuries so earning well or getting good perks will probably suit you very well too.

But importantly, you need to be recognised for specialist knowledge and advice and the difference it can make.

Areas to be aware of:

- Your loyalty could be your downfall if it keeps you in a job that no longer serves you.
- Make sure your sometimes stubborn nature is set to work for you rather than against you.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR EMOTIONAL COMFORT AND INNER SECURITY?

You get an emotional sense of comfort and security through advising others on how to develop and maximise their assets and resources, whether personal or material. You also get satisfaction through helping or nurturing others during times of distress and trauma or through change and upheaval. Your communications, spoken or written, will have great impact and you need to ensure that your intentions are constructive.

You have the potential for personal change and transformation and could be very beneficial in helping others overcome their own personal demons, addictions, obsessions and ailments.

You need to work in an environment that provides a constant flow of new, different and interesting – people, places and knowledge. Too much routine, predictability and boredom will cause great stress for you.

Areas to be aware of:

- Your emotions and passions are strong and run deep and you can achieve great things if you are able to harness the power of your emotions and gear them towards positive and constructive goals.

AND HOW DO OTHERS PERCEIVE YOU?

There is a natural appeal about you that others find attractive and you come across as friendly, relaxed and utterly charming - all very positive for interviews, presentations or sales situations. You are particularly well suited to sales as you have an inbuilt sense of timing as well as of what others need. Your negotiation skills will do all the rest. You have a very strong sense of fairness.

You are a master of interpersonal skills, networking and social engineering and as such you will always know where the opportunities lie and who to approach when you need something. Alternatively others will see you as being in the know.

You always seem to know the best thing to do or say to heal rifts, soothe bruised feelings and calm troubled waters of any kind.

You are well liked by others and they will want to support and back you.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFO modifying how others perceive you or the approach you have to life

Your natural manner of self expression and the 'face' you approach work with are completely different, sometimes leaving you feeling frustrated and insecure about yourself. A tendency to overcome this by working harder can lead to exhaustion.

Your rather assertive style can sometimes land you in hot water when you fail to think before you act.

You thoroughly enjoy everything to do with meeting new people and new situations and you will always come across well to others.

OVERVIEW OF CAREER, WORKING ENVIRONMENT AND EARNING POTENTIAL

Career and career field

- Fields connected to career
- Supplementary Info

Daily work environment

Earning potential

- Fields connected with earning

Just for the love of it

- Supplementary info

General information pertaining to overall career

WHAT CAREER AND WHAT ELEMENTS OF A CAREER WILL ATTRACT YOU?

In order to feel a true sense of pleasure and satisfaction in your career, it is essential that the work you do stimulates some very specific interests and fulfils some specific requirements. This is what is sometimes referred to as your life mission or purpose. Keep in mind that what you need to do in order to feel fulfilled might not always be suitable to support yourself or a family. If this is the case, the section on earning potential will point to alternate earning routes or sources.

The leader, the boss, the star, in charge – this is what you want and who you are and you'll do your best to work your way up the ladder as fast as possible in order to achieve it.

Managing, controlling, directing and overseeing it all is where you need to be. Getting bogged down by boring routines and details is not for you.

You'll be attracted to work that is entrepreneurial, bright, glamorous, fun, showy, dramatic, and if it makes you look important and impressive so much the better. You are the one who will be out networking, meeting the people, entertaining the customers and getting the business in.

Now read through 'Fields connected to career' and combine the most appealing from this career section with the specific areas listed. Be sure to take information from the section 'Personality and disposition' into account when considering these fields.

BEST FIELDS FOR YOUR CAREER

It is not intended that all of these fields will interest you, but one or two will. Or your interest might be piqued by something you hadn't thought of before.

Any of:

- Being a consultant, a specialist, an expert
- Helping others make the most of themselves and their resources
- Work that involves transformation, renewal, renovation, recycling or makeovers

- Exploring the unconscious, the hidden, the obscured, the mysterious, the meaning of life, death and the life hereafter.
- Working with the assets of others' – money, corporate money, stock-broking, banking, life insurance, investing, tax, recycling of resources, credit manager, finances related to divorce and separation
- Law - corporate/banking law, tax law, life insurance, estate law, matters concerning the assets of the deceased or dying, coroner
- Medical – surgery, paramedics, emergency room work, pathology, psychology/psychiatry, hypnotism
- Science – forensic, chemistry or physics
- Vocational counselling
- Crisis control
- Criminology
- Bounty hunting, bill collecting
- Research, analysis, investigation
- Private investigation, security services
- Mortuary work, working at a funeral parlour, any work to do with the deceased
- Archaeology, excavation
- Work involving the occult
- Waste management
- Any work to do with genetics, bacteriology, epidemiology

Please note that while a particular field may be suggested, for example entertainment, this does not necessarily mean you should be an entertainer as such, but rather that you will enjoy working within that industry.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFO modifying your approach to the career arena

Your originality and individualism do have a place in the world but you won't find it until you learn to control your restlessness and the speed at which you act on it. Going flying off at tangents is counterproductive.

Your calm and relaxed demeanour makes you good in emotionally tense situations. You are great at supporting colleagues and associates. While you enjoy variety and change, you are patient enough to wait for the right opportunity to come your way or perhaps the right timing.

You are very susceptible to what others think, and will more than likely start out following a career path influenced by your parents or peers. While it could take some time, your constant search for your own identity, purpose and direction in life will lead you to find your own place in the sun. You have great understanding of others that could make humanitarian or charitable work attractive to you. Or perhaps artistic or musical ability or interest.

Somehow things usually seem to work out well for you career wise.

YOUR WORK ENVIRONMENT

Your working environment needs to be challenging, competitive and dynamic. It could involve some risk, an adrenalin rush or two or even danger to keep you happy and on your toes.

MONEY AND HOW BEST TO EARN IT

These are the skills you have that will assist you in acquiring income.

You take the subject of income very seriously. Excellent at forming strategies, once you've set your focus on a goal, you will work hard and doggedly until you achieve success. Although sometimes it does seem that money somehow finds its way to you just as you most need it.

You have the ability to see the motivations and issues underlying surface appearances and are therefore a master at working the office politics to your best advantage as well seeing what those in authority really need in order to be impressed by you.

You will go to any lengths to get what is due to you.

The fields listed below are specific areas where you could earn. Remember to take all the information from this report into account when considering these fields.

BEST FIELDS FOR EARNING

It is not intended that all of these fields will interest you, but one or two will. Or your interest might be piqued by something you hadn't thought of before.

Any of:

- Work to do with large institutions / government work
- Charities, welfare and relief organisations
- Homes for the destitute, elderly
- Healing humanity
- Spiritual work
- Hospitals, clinics, asylums, morgues
- Anything connected with detention, correction and imprisonment
- Work to do with drugs, alcohol and addiction
- Photography, illusion
- Music, poetry, ghost writing
- Oceanography, diving
- Night work
- Behind-the-scenes work, research
- Alcohol workers and dealers
- Confidential positions, secret service, foreign/undercover agents, private investigators
- Work dealing with criminals
- Antiques dealers, second hand goods dealers, scrap dealers
- Convents, monasteries

- Animals (large and/ fierce) – veterinarian, game wardens, zoo workers
- Occult religions, psychics, paranormal, mystical
- Oil wells and workers
- Shoe manufacture and workers
- Any work to do with feet

Please note that while a particular field may be suggested, for example entertainment, this does not necessarily mean you should be an entertainer as such, but rather that you will enjoy working within that industry.

'JUST FOR THE LOVE OF IT'

To find what it is that brings you absolute delight and what you thoroughly enjoy doing, combine any of the elements in the following two descriptions. The results should not come as a surprise to you but should induce you to ensure that you include more of those activities in your life to increase your overall balance and enjoyment of life. And if you are lucky, it could be an area where you could earn an income doing it.

Psychology, analysis, investigating, research, ferreting, strategy, magic, transformation, recycling, revival, power, healing, intensity, secrecy, unmentionables – sex, death and anything that most find hard to discuss/do/face.

combined with any of:

- Position of leadership and initiation
- Playing the central role
- Self managed positions
- Starting new ventures
- Running your own business
- Risk taking, dangerous occupations
- Front person - receptionist, doorman
- Body work – masseur, physiotherapist, gym instructor etc
- Work dealing with / products or services aimed at the masses/common people
- Handwriting analysis
- Barber
- Butchery
- Manufacturing of armaments
- Working within the iron/steel industry

It is not intended that all of these fields will interest you, but one or two will. Or your interest might be piqued by something you hadn't thought of before.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFO

Nothing to note.

GENERAL INFORMATION pertaining to your career

You have the talent of being able to pick up on exactly what is going on without having to be told.

You have a talent for being just as assertive as any situation requires. Never too much and never too little.

You have the talent of drawing luck to you when you need it.

You can find it hard to be completely objective as your feelings will always be a part of the equation.

You have the erroneous belief that what you do isn't good enough and you spend a great deal of time either criticizing yourself or in battle with authority figures. The positive side to this is that you tend to work a lot harder than your counterparts and will probably achieve success despite yourself.

Fiercely independent, you can't bear stagnation or any form of personal restraint and need to take great care. You are just the type of person to impulsively (and needlessly) cut ties and start on a different path, without any thought of consequences or alternative plans. Your impulsiveness can also make you very accident prone and caution should be exercised while driving. You will have strong interest in anything technological, scientific, astrological or occult and could work within one of these fields. You are capable of great thinking and inventiveness.

You are great at sharing your thoughts on a wide range of topics but might not always be quite so good at listening to other points of view.

An innate sense of not being good enough will cause you to work harder, produce better results and generally be more successful than those around you. But you need to ensure that your pessimism and fear don't paralyse you, thereby not starting anything at all.

You have the talent for naturally incorporating different philosophies into your everyday life.

Make sure your job has you constantly on the move or you won't stay very long.

You have a marvellous quirky creativeness in your thinking and personal expression.

You dislike inharmonious contacts and will make every effort to regain the harmony. Because of this, you tend to be well regarded by all. You probably have creative writing talent and most likely didn't see the value of hard work at school.

You could benefit by always checking your facts before forming opinions and taking risks.

You have unconventional talent.

Money and resources can be wasted on unnecessary extravagance.

You tend to idealise your co-workers feeling very let down if they don't live up to your unrealistic expectations.

You have a talent for getting your ideas and opinions widely known and accepted.

You have a talent for acting on all of your creative and imaginative ideas.

You need to take extra care when evaluating opportunities as you tend to see more positive aspects than actually exist. Risks, gambling and speculation are not likely to be successful for you. You have the capacity for tremendous spiritual devotion as well as sustained work and effort on behalf of those less fortunate.

The need to settle down, to follow one direction or take one course of action, versus the desire for freedom, change and individuality causes constant tension and restlessness within you. But you also have the capacity to develop a working style that suits your personality.

Very ambitious and needing to prove yourself, you will work long and hard to achieve success. You shine in emergency situations.

I wish you well on your path.